Leadership for Social Responsibility

Social responsibility, or being socially responsible, implies action—a call to action for individuals to systemically improve educational environments.

In the Field of education, social justice promotes:
• Democracy in schooling
• Equitable practice in schools
• Equal treatment in social, economic, and political arenas
• Removal of racial, linguistic, gender, and class-based barriers
• Academic excellence for all children
• Elimination of hostile environments
• Equal power relationships
• Opportunities and resources for career advancement
• Voice to the marginalized or the oppressed
• Changes in attitudes, thoughts, and action